

Justin Hahn

Justin Hahn joined Norfolk Southern in July 2016 as hazardous materials compliance officer for the Piedmont Division, which includes North Carolina and South Carolina. Justin manages all aspects of regulatory compliance, safety training, and emergency response within this territory. Prior to NS, Justin retired from a 16-year career in fire services as a hazmat engine captain. He remains a certified firefighter and hazmat specialist. He also spent 14 years as a private contractor in the hazardous materials and environmental remediation fields, where he served as an instructor for a number of firefighting and hazardous materials programs. Justin obtained his bachelor's degree in environmental management and an associate degree in occupational safety and health from Columbia Southern University in 2013.