

Fire Service Mortar: The Critical Role of the Company Officer

This program is designed to be a no-nonsense approach to company officer leadership. No theory or fancy ideology here, just realistic and practical ways proven to build an effective group of performers within your team. I will bring previous military experience as well as experience in my current role to reinforce the importance of unit cohesion and how to achieve it. We will talk about team building and relationships, conflict management, accountability, training, and more. We will talk about what happens when leadership fails and how your firehouse can suffer as a result. This class is meant to inspire action and produce results in your company and your department as a whole. You will be given tools today to make immediate change tomorrow.